13. Cancellation: all orders may be lawfully cancelled by the vendor. In the event of the buyer failing to fulfil his commitments, particularly non-compliance with payment conditions, the vendor may claim conditional damages from the buyer if there is cause to do so. In general, any change in the financial situation or the creditworthiness of the buyer, such as a creditors' arrangement, bankruptcy, payment delays after expiry date, protests, etc. shall entitle us to immediately cancel any orders placed, or the balance of orders, or to demand the appropriate guarantees in this regard.

14. Ownership conditions: the goods remain our property until full payment has been received. The risks are for the account of the buyer once the goods have left our workshops. Any advances paid may be regarded as compensation and interest.

15. Force majeure: incidents of force majeure shall lawfully relieve us, without any compensation being owed, of the obligation to fulfil ongoing orders or agreed delivery terms from the day of the relevant event. Force majeure is understood to include any unforeseen situation that prevents the fulfilment of our obligations.

16. Hardship clause: incidents of hardship shall lawfully relieve us, without any compensation being owed, of the obligation to fulfil ongoing orders or agreed delivery terms from the day of the relevant event, unless there is a mutual agreement to amend the ongoing orders or the agreed terms. Cases of hardship shall be understood to include: events that hinder the fulfilment of our obligations or make this more expensive such that the balance of the contract is unreasonably impacted. Hardship is understood to relate to circumstances such as; fire, flooding, machinery breakdown, lack of fuel or electricity, wars at home or abroad that hamper the provision of raw materials, insurrection, strikes, lock-outs, interruption to the railway transport systems, water or roads. In summary, anything that could obstruct or hinder production or shipment.

17. Disputes and law: in order to be considered, any disputes must be addressed to us in writing within ten days of delivery. Our responsibilities hereby shall be limited to the replacement of any defective components. The quantities indicated in our workshops are the only quantities that shall be considered for the creation of accounts. Materials may not be returned to us unless there has been prior, written agreement. All disputes, of whatever nature, shall only be settled by the court in Kortrijk, notwithstanding any condition to the contrary. Belgian law shall apply. The acceptance of cash, cheques, etc. in payment shall not relate to any deviation in relation to this clause.

18. Amendments: amendments to any of the above articles shall have no further impact on any other conditions. Any amendment must be contained within a written clause.

19. Acceptance of our general sales conditions: the present general sales terms and conditions are an essential part of all sales contracts. It shall be assumed that the buyer has taken cognisance thereof and thus accepts these sales conditions. Any contradictory provisions that are presented unilaterally by the buyer (e.g. on his/her order form) and not specifically accepted by us, shall be disregarded and shall not be applied to the relevant agreement.
